"Explanation Upon Entering the Academy" – by Han Yu

COMMENT:
Who says traditional China’s Confucianism was all about blind, unquestioning submission to authority? Han Yu was a famous Confucian, yet here he certainly accepted an audacious questioning of his authority from a mere student. When it appeared that what he, the teacher, was saying, that is, those in charge would be intelligent and just, did not accord with reality, that is, those in charge did not seem to treat the teacher himself intelligently or justly, it was perfectly fine for a student to pointedly challenge the teacher. In fact, in Confucian China, it was considered an unshirkable duty for a subject to dispute a ruler and for a son to dispute a father, when the ruler or the father was being unrighteous. Please note that it wasn’t just acceptable behavior; it was an actual duty. (See Chapter 15 “Dissuading and Disputing” in Xiao Jing or The Classic of Xiao or Being Good to Parents at http://www.tsoidug.org/Xiao/Xiao_Jing_Comment_Simp.pdf, pp. 28-30.)

Yes, rather than just rely on the interpretations of authors who might present a one-sided view, it pays to read the original writings of the ancients yourself and personally hear their voices. And that is why this website provides translations of traditional Chinese writings.

Introduction:
In 815 A.D., after Han Yu, who had been head of not only the Supreme Academy but also of all education throughout the Empire plus other high offices at court, had been demoted for three years to be a mere doctor (bo’ shi 博士) at the Supreme Academy (tai` xue’ 太学), which was a junior, entry level position for court officials, he wrote this piece, perhaps to console himself. After those in power read the essay they re-promoted him to a higher post, probably afraid that others would draw the same conclusions as the student depicted in the essay.

“If I measure the abundance or scarcity of my riches and calculate the highness or lowness of my rank,

30 I interpret 役役 (yi’ yi’) here to mean “going hither and thither to seek advantage for oneself”. See: Op. Cit. 6, p. 900; 《辞海》1989, 900页：“役役”：奔走钻营。 （韩愈同代人白居易《闭关》诗：回顾趋时者，役役尘埃间。） Note: 役役 (yi’ yi’) can also mean “constant hard toil” – 又：形容劳苦不休－但 then taken with the next few phrases the entire passage wouldn’t make sense.
31 Shang- (商) here has the meaning of “to measure” See Op. Cit. 25, Kang Xi Dictionary, p.122, 《康熙字典》，122页， “商”：度也 … 犹量也。
忘己量之所称，指前人之瑕疵。

"If I forget what I am qualified for and criticize the flaws of my superiors,

Note: Han Yu and Ancient Prose

The author Han Yu (768-824 C.E.) was a famous essayist of the Tang Dynasty who changed Chinese prose for the next thousand plus years. He initiated and led the movement to return to “ancient prose” (gu^ wen’ 古文) in opposition to the then dominant “parallel prose” (pian’ wen’ 骈文). “Parallel Prose”, which had become dominant from about 400 A.D. on, was prose that required sentences to be in couplets of two sentences of equal length and often rhymed. By “ancient prose” Han Yu meant prose in the language and writing style of the Qin and Han Dynasties (about 200 B.C.E. – 200 C.E.), where sentences were of unequal length and could stand alone without being in a couplet. While “parallel prose” was ornate and beautiful, “ancient prose” was capable of a far wider range of expression and with Han Yu’s call quickly became the dominant prose style. By adhering to the ancient language of 200 B.C., however, “ancient prose” made the written word in traditional China depart farther and farther from the everyday spoken language (the vernacular) as the centuries passed. Thus respectable writings in Imperial China came to be quite incomprehensible to the ordinary people of the time and remain so today to most Chinese speakers.

\(^{32}\) Chang- yang\(^\wedge\) (昌阳): a medicinal herb for building up the body.

\(^{33}\) Xi- ling’ (豨苓) is a purgative (laxative), which acts opposite to building up the body.
国子先生，晨入太学，
召诸生于膝下而训之曰：
学精于勤荒于嬉，行成于思毁于随。方今圣贤相逢，治具毕张，
拔去凶邪，登崇俊良。占小善者率以录，名一艺者无不庸。
爬罗剔抉，刮垢磨光。盖有幸而获选，孰云多而不扬。
诸生业患不能精，无患有司之不明。行患不能成，无患有司之不公。
言未既，有笑于列者曰，
先生欺我哉。
弟子事先生，于兹有年矣。先生口不绝吟于六艺之文，
手不停披于百家之编。记事者必提其要，纂言者必钩其玄。
贪多务得，细大不捐。焚膏油以继晷，恒兀兀以穷年。
先生之业，可谓勤矣。腻排异端，攘斥佛老。
补苴罅漏，张皇幽眇。寻坠绪之茫茫，独旁搜而远绍。
障百川而东之，回狂澜于既倒。先生之于儒，可谓劳矣。沉浸醲郁，含英咀华，作为文章，其书满家。上观姚姒，浑浑无涯，周诰殷盘，佶屈聱牙。春秋谨严，左氏浮夸，易奇而法，诗正而葩。下逮庄骚，太史所录。子云相如，同工异曲。先生之于文，可谓闳其中而肆其外矣。少始知学，勇于敢为。长通于方，左右具宜。先生之于为人，可谓成矣。然公不见信于人，私不见助于友。跋前疐后，动辄得咎。暂为御史，遂窜南夷。三年博士，冗不见治。命与仇谋，取败几时。冬燠而儿号寒，年丰而妻啼饥。头童齿豁，竟死何裨。不知虑此，而反教人为。先生曰，吁，子来前。
夫大木为梁，细木为桷。木栌栌侏儒，枅阖闚楔，各得其宜，施以成室者，匠氏之工也。玉札丹砂，赤箭青芝，牛溲马勃，败鼓之皮，俱收并蓄，待用无遗者，医师之良也。登明选公，杂进巧掘，纤余为饼，卓荦为杰，校短量长，惟器是适者，宰相之方也。昔者孟轲好辩，孔道以明，环辙天下，卒老于行。荀卿守正，大论是弘，逃谗于楚，废死兰陵。是二儒者，吐辞为经，举足为法，绝类离伦，优入圣域，其遇于世，何如也。今先生学虽勤而不繇其统，言虽多而不要其中，文虽奇而不济其用，行虽修而不显于众，
The Teacher of the Sons of the Country entered the Supreme Academy in the morning,
Called the students to his seat, and admonished them:
“Study excels with diligence and becomes neglected with play; conduct succeeds with thinking and is destroyed by following.
“Today the saintly (i.e. a saintly emperor – trans.) and the virtuous (i.e. virtuous ministers – trans.) are met, and the apparatus of government is expanding fully.
“The wicked are rooted out, and the good ascend to honor.
Those with a small expertise are inducted into the registry; those with a single skill don’t go unused.
The net is combed and picked over; dirt is scraped away and things are polished to shine.
“There are those who get chosen because of luck; there aren’t those who have much but are not raised up.
“Students, worry that your studies won’t excel; don’t worry that those in charge may be muddle-headed.
“Worry that your conduct won’t attain high standards; don’t worry that those in charge may be unjust.”
Before the words were finished, among those lined up someone laughed and said, “Teacher, you are deceiving us.
“I, your student, have been serving under you, Teacher, for a year now.
“Teacher, your mouth never stops reciting the works of the Six Arts;
“Your hands are never taken off the books of the Hundred Schools.
“When recording matters you always mention what is important; when editing works you always footnote what is profound.
“You hunger for more duties and without fail get them; you don’t relinquish anything, great or small.
“You burn the oil to continue daylight; you keep working away the whole year long.
“You refute heresies; you rebuke the Buddhists and the Daoists.
“You fill in the cracks and defects; you expand and magnify the obscure and tiny.
“You seek traces in the vast expanse; you alone search nearby things and connect them with things far away.
“You dam a hundred rivers and turn them eastward; you stop crazed waves when they are about to come down.
“Teacher, what you do for Confucianism can be said to be full of contributions.
“Soaked in the finest wine, flowers and blossoms come out of your mouth,
“You put them into writing; those books fill your house.
“Above, they take as guide Shun and Yu (the Sage Emperors – trans.), vast without end;
“The Zhou Dynasty’s Enjoinments and the Yin Dynasty’s Pan Geng, irregular and hard to pronounce;
“The Book of Change, uncanny and its methods to be learned, and the Book of Poetry, upright and ornate.
“Below, your writings attain the levels of Zhuang Zhou, Li Sao, and what the Grand Historian has recorded, “Compared to Zi Yun and Xiang Yu, you craft the same artistry, only the songs are different.
“Teacher, what you have done with writing can be said to be immense in content and unrestrained in form.
“From an early age you’ve known to study; you are brave and you dare do things.
“Long have you known well what is correct; whether to the left or to the right you act appropriately.
“Teacher, your conduct as a person can be said to have attained high standards.
“Yet in public affairs you are not trusted by others and in private affairs you are not helped by friends.
“When you go forward you fall and when you go backward you meet with obstruction; you make a small movement and you get reproached.
“For a while you were Supervisory Inspector, then you fled to the barbaric South.
“For three years you’ve been doctor, superfluous and not involved in governing.
“Fate colludes with your enemies; you have met with defeat a number of times.
“The winter is warm yet your son cries of cold; the harvest is plentiful yet your wife weeps of hunger.
“Your head is bald and your teeth are cracked; should you die what good would all (your work) be?
“You don’t know to worry about this; instead you teach others how to act.”
The Teacher said, “Oh my goodness! Come forward, sir.
“Look, using large timbers for pillars, small timbers for roof trusses,
And dwarfs for column brackets, door rod cups, door dividers, door bolts, and wedges,
“So that all are in their right places and form a house,
“Is the art of the craftsman.
“Yu zha and cinnabar, chi jian and qing zhi,
“Cattle urine, ma bo, and the skin of broken drums –
“To all collect and store, to wait for use and not get lost,
“Is the proficiency of the physician.
“To post clearly and choose justly, taking in the skilled and the unskilled,
“Using the bent and weak as officials over women and the outstanding and eminent as heroes,
“Measuring shortcomings and strengths so as to fit the ability to the job,
“Is the method of the prime minister.
“Formerly Mencius was good at debate and clarified Confucianism,
“Yet he ended up trekking through the whole of China, and died of old age on the road.
“Xun Qing stuck to what was right and held great discussions on profound truths,
Yet he ended up fleeing slanders at Chu, and died rejected at Lan Ling.
Those two Confucians, every word they uttered formed scripture and every move they made formed a standard.
They were exceptional and beyond mankind, entering the realm of the saintly.
Yet what fate did they meet with in this world?
Now your teacher’s studies may be diligent but they don’t follow any guiding principle;
My words may be many but there is nothing important in them;
My writings may be uncanny but they are of no practical use;
My conduct may be cultivated but it is not outstanding.
Yet every month I cost salary money, and every year I consume government grain.
My son does not know plowing; my wife does not know weaving.
I ride a horse and have servants who follow; I sit at ease to eat.
I go long ways to seek advantage for myself; I look up old compilations and steal from them,
Yet the saintly Lord does not punish me and the ministers do not reprimand me.
Is that not fortunate?
I move and I get slandered, but fame also follows.
To be idle and unneeded is suitable for my station.
If I measure the abundance or scarcity of my riches and calculate the highness or lowness of my rank,
If I forget what I am qualified for and criticize the flaws of my superiors,
That would be what is called questioning the craftsman for not using thin rods as pillars,
And criticizing the physician for using chang yang to build up the body, wanting to use xi ling instead.”
